Home Comfort Ranges! "HEADQUARTERS FOR BARGAINS"

The present century is pre-eminently one progress and improvement, yet in no branch of industry have greater gains been made than in that which aids in loading the table with food perfectly prepared, one of the first and most necessary steps toward health, that boon priceless alike to prince or poor man. The brush heap probably cooked the first food, and the huge fireplace, garnished with hooks, cranes and ovens, was a giant stride in progress. It took years of patient toil to bring up to its present grade of utility the cast iron cook stove. It is now concededby most thou ghtful people to have had its day of usefulness, and in every point of superiority Wrought-Iron Rages are superceding them. Investigation, experience and practical tests have demonstrated these to be incontrovertible facts. Practical experience is potent and absolute, and by that severe test we have carefully tried every progressive step and change in the construction of our Ranges. We absolutely guarantee them to work to perfection, and they make friends everywhere. They are marvels of usefulness, and economic no less than sanitary reasons urge that they be used in every family. Wealth without health is adorned poverty, and poverty without health is misery. Good food, properly cocked, is a great factor in health, hence the necessity that all should have one of our matchless "Home Comfort" Ranges, bringing health and comfort; so that "good digestion waits on appetite, and health

ld Morosini Brings His Daughter Back to Yonkers Upon an Offer of Reconciliation Which She Rejects-She Will Abide With Henry Till Death Doth Them Part-A

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch. New York, September 15.—Mrs. Victoria Huels camp, nee Morosini, slept last night with her coach man spouse in the room occupied by her dear Ernest when he was driving her father's carriage and taking care of his houses, before their fortunes and hearts had been linked. The room is over Henry Warner's iquor shop at Riverdale and Ludlow streets, within a short distance of the Moros ni mansion, in Yonkers. The house is a plain two-story frame building, and the room is scantily furnished—all in striking contrast with the elegant boudoir she might have occupied had she been willing to renounce her lover. The presence of the young couple in Yonkers is due to negotiations which have been in progress for the past two days between the father and daughter looking to a reconciliation. In answer to a note which read, "Come back, Victoria, and all will thee be forgiven." Mr. and Mrs. Huelskamp came down from Troy on the train that arrived at 5:22 vesterday morning.

of the Yonkers, he hurried to the depot, but met them on their way to the Morosioi residence and suggested that they stop at the station until Mr. Morosin could be notified of their arrival. They consented to do so, and will waiting took breakfast. They had scarcely finished the meal when a carriage drove up and Attilio, Victoria's eldest brother, alighted. Mrs. Huelskamp stepped out on the payement to meet him, and there was a brief but earnest conference, in which young Morosini made several attempts to draw his sister into the carriage. When irs. Huelskamp returned to the room she had left she was followed by her brother, who went on into a private apartment, where he was joined by the Captain. Presently Captain Mangin beckoned to the young couple to come in, and, in a few moments, the husband and wife stood in the presence of the enruged brother. and taking care of his houses, before their fortunes and hearts had been linked.

than twice as valuable. I will gladly exchange with her."

"We have stolen nothing," said Huelskamp, throwing back his shoulders and glancing vindictively at his brother-in-law, "We have brought back everything we took away."

"Oh, that I should have been so deceived as to trust them, when I felt in my beart that they would deceive me, 'said his wife. "It is true that I ran away and was married. I love my husband dearly, and would do it again. They skall never separate us, shall they, my dear one?" and she took Huelskamp's arm, and clung to him affectionately. Captain Mangin asked the usual questions as soon as the first flurry of the announcement was over and made the following entry on the blotter. "Victoria Hulskamp, age 26, white, native of the United States, married, can read and write; charged with stealing a diamond pin of the value of $70."

THE FORTY-NINTH.

Complexion of the Next Congress-Some of

as diagnosed by the experienced observers here, that the forty-ninth Congress, be its political complexion what it may, will probably be a stronger and more thoroughly representative body than the one elected two years ago. There are numerous reasons for this conclusion. First, perhaps is the law of chance. It is pretty nearly certain that the next House can not be precisely the same as the present, and it seems impossible that it should change for the worse. Another reason is that members of both parties have seen the necessity this year of putting their ablest men in the field in order to have their aid, moral and material, in the national struggle. The consequence is that the men nominated on both sides, as a rule, average much better than those nominated two years ago. The result was then a surprise to many people. In large numbers of districts where the nominations were supposed to be nere empty honors, the candidates so chosen were elected. Had the party so selecting the men, for defeat as they supposed, had any thought that their candidates were likely to be successful they would have chosen better men. Warned by the exper-iences of last election, and urged by the necessities of the national campaign, they have in both parties put forward, so far as possible, their best men. The result will be, it is believed, a very material Dut forward, so far as possible, their best mea. The result will be, it is believed, a very material improvement over the present Congress. There are a few cases where excellent men have voluntarily retired, as is the fact in the cases of Messrs. Washburne of Minnesota: George of Oregon; Miller of Pennsylvania and a few others, but as good men have been named to succeed most of them, the loss will not be serious. A study of the nomination aiready finade shows that the chances are decidedly in favor of an improved condition of affairs in the next House. While a large number of the worthless "sticks" have been dropped out, many of the best men in that body have been nominated, and many others of national reputation have been named to take the places of those retiring. Not a few members of former Congresses, who were in the present House, have also been nominated. What the complexion of the next House will be of course cannot be foretold, though that the Republicans should overcome the present large majority seems hardly probable. Among the men of more than average ability already named for the next House are Reed and Dingley of Maine; Lyman, Rice and Rockwell of Massachusetts; Randall of Pennsylvania: McAdoo and Phelps in New Jersey; Holton and McComas in Maryland; Tucker and Barbour of Virginia; Alken, Tiliman and Dibble of North Carolins; Forney, Herbert and Oares of a labama; Regan of Texas; Clardy, Bland, O Neill, Hatch and Barnes of Missouri; Foliett, Butterwirth. North Carolina; Forney, Herbert and O. Alabama; Regan of Texas; Clardy, Bland, Hatch and Barnes of Missouri; Follett, Butta Paige and Foran of Onio; Davis and Hitt of Horr and Burrows of Michigan and many Of course the leaders on either side, such as son. Quebro, September 15.—The steamship Ocean King with Canadian voyageurs for the Nile on board arrived here last night and was visited this morning by the Governor General and Lady Lansdowne and Hon, A. H.Caron, Minister of Militia. His Excellency addressed the officers and men of the contingent force in well-chosen words, and spoke of the dangers of the Nile, but did not think them any more dangerous than our Canadian rapids. He spoke in reference to Gordon, whose name is a household word wherever the British flag waves, and he felt proud to see Canada so fully represented in such an expedition as this. It is stated that Wolseley, who had previously been atmong our boatmen when on the Red River expedition, knew of what stirling qualities the men were possessed, and it was partly through this that they had so earnestly been asked ho accompany the expedition, something of which they should be proud. He paid special tribute to the Indians and spoke at some length upon their natural qualities which fitted them so much for the present undertaking. The party left the steamer amidst cheers. The Ocean King sailed thic afternoon. The vessel presented a peculiar appearance as she steamed off, all the men being on the deck dressed in their uniforms. The Vice Regal party left for Toronto.

on, September 15.—The great am sed this year over the effects of the Civil Service Law in regard to the politics of the office-holder and his right to take an interest in this questries. In Germany, where the Civil Service System is one of long standing, Prince Bismarck quite re-cently, after much deliberation and study of the sitment would be expected to support its measures, by voting only for Government candidates. An announcement from such source is of course consid valls that the fellow in affice who fails to follow the course indicated, will, some fine morning, find his place filled by somebody else who knows how to place filled by somebody else who knows how to electioneer as well as vote right. And all this, too, over a much smaller question of salary than here. The salaries paid in the German Civil Service are very small. The great majority of them range from $500 to $600 per year, and very few of them get, up as high as $1,500 per year. Besides this the rules as to education and other requirements are much more strict than in this country. Each applicant is required to have a collegiate education as a condition precedent to the original examination. He must have also some special training for the position into which he is to enter. And then, on so entering, he gets about the salary of a scrub woman in one of the departments here gets. There are some advantages, however, over our system, notably a promotion by merit from one grade to another in a manner more satisfactory than by our new and crude law, tenure of office during good behavior, and a system of pensions in case of disability after a certain term in of-fice. These pensions range from twenty-five per cent of the salary when the disability occurs after fifteen years service, up to seventy-five per cent after 50 years' service.

andidate for the Republican nomination in the no reasonable ground for Mr. Brown to apprehend defeat, provided he does not manifest a disposition to run the canvass on an economical ba sis. Dr. McLean, as has been several times stated, had the call on the nomination, provided he would positively declare himself a canditate and provided he would conduct himself and his race in a manner consistent with that of two years ago. In a spirit of confidence the doctor twice notified the managers of the Republican machine in one or two of the principal wards of the district that he had taken all necessary observations and had determined to run. Twice did they, in obedience to this signal, put the machinery in motion to grind him out a nomination, and twice were they called upon to halt and wait a little till he gave the matter further study. Meanwhile he was hearing all sorts of reports, many favorable and many otherwise, among them being the very frequent assurance that if he got the nomination there would be an independent candidate in the field to ruin him. When he put on the brakes the last time the ward workers got angry, and began to indulge in some profanity at this seeming disposition to "make monkeys" of them. The fact was patent that while they were dickering with the doctor other operators were getting in their work on Mr. Brown, and there was a growing prospect of the pie going to the wrong crowd. The result was inevitable. The men who a couple of weeks ago were declaring that nobody but Dr. McLean had any chance, are almost unanimous in the assertion that not only is Dr. McLean not a candidate, but that he could not get the nomination if he were. The tendency of their talk is while in commercial Republican circles there is no other candidate talked of. On Saturday a report was given circulation that the Republican party of the district is to be divided into two factions again by the revival of the Cavender committee, which will call primaries and a convention independently of the committee which claims regularity.

Mr. George D. Reynolds, who more than any other man, contributed to the organization of the leading members of the Cavender committee, says that the report th sis. Dr. McLean, as has been several times stated, had the call on the nomination,

It appears that there has no very serious damage. It appears that there has existed considerable bad feeling for some time between "Nobby" Clark, a leading salesman, and Frank Dean, who buys largely for Eastern and local parties. The former claims that the latter shows favoritism when making his purchases and has persistently given him the cold shoulder when he endeavored to induce him to buy. Early this morning Dean, who was buying to fill local orders, was accused by Clark of too much partiality in his dealings. Hot words followed and in an instant the slugging began in the most approved style. Dean was doing great execution about Clark's head and face, when he slipped and fell. The latter seeing his foe prostrate proceeded to use his feet very rapidly about Dean's head. At this juncture friends rushed in and separated the combatants, but not before Dean had received a severe cut above the right eye, which necessitated the calling in of a surgeon to repair damages. Clark was found to be badly bruised and cut about the face, and will wear a mouse under each eye for some time.

Several other negroes took a hand in the assault, and after knocking the officer down broke his left arm and his nose with rocks, and badly cut up his face. The two negroes who lead the assault escaped, but are known to the police.

HAVE you registered? Have you subscribed to the Illumination Fund? Have you visited the Fine Art Gallery at the Exposition? These are the calls of duty to-day.

Now that we have heard from everybody else about the Sunday opening of the Exposition, we should like to hear from the directors as to whether they propose to pay attention to an almost unanimous public opinion.

In several other columns will be found the second edition of the Mulligan letters. It is cruel to publish them, but the fact is that many of our most cherished Republican editors seem to be out of crow and to hanker for more.

THE nomination of ex-Marshal CARMAN A NEWCOMB for Congress in the Tenth District recalls tender and touching memories. Mr. NEWCOMB is the gentleman who had charge of the census in 1870, and who by one mighty effort exploded forever the antique superstition that "figures won't lie."

Last week while the thermometer in New York was climbing up into the nineties, the circulation of the WORLD also climbed up into the nineties, and reached ninety-six thousand yesterday. One peculiarity of the circulation of the WORLD is that it expands in warm weather and grows larger in cold weather.

IT is announced that a Mr. GOTTSCHALK of St. Louis is following up CARL SCHURZ and demolishing him from every stump. By and by Mr. SCHURZ will notice Mr. GOTTSCHALK, and then Mr. GOTTSCHALK will be as big a man as the historic citizen who used to boast that he had once been kicked by George Washing-

PENNSYLVANIA swarms with dissatisfied workingmen in spite of our war tariff, and Mr. RANDALL predicts that the State will be carried by the Democrats in November. Mr. RAN-DALL is credited there with a political sagacity almost infallible, but no symptoms of a wild rush to stake wealth on his prediction have been developed as yet. His forecast of the last Speakership contest has somewhat impaired confidence in his powers as a prophet.

CITIZENS of St. Louis who are interested in the coming elections are requested to visit, this office and examine our files for '80 and '82 for the customary editorial observations upon the advantages of calling out a full vote, and on the necessity of registering. Our objection to republishing the articles is, that, though they are really gems of sound reasoning, our experience teaches us that the registration in St. Louis is the same dreary old failure after ing to recover. Really, we fear that Coachman furtherance of his own purposes may dictate, HUELSKAMP has made a mesalliance.

FROM time to time the enemies of the British nobility try to make it appear that the peers are useless ornaments to society. Yet it is told of the late Duke of Wellington that he kept a herd of Angora goats, and that he kept himself supplied with coats and waistcoats made from their wool. At his farm at Strathfieldsaye, he also kept some very fine mules, though, to his surprise and astonishment, they did not increase in numbers, and also a flock of Ardennes sheep, hope that no one will seriously argue that a

THE objections to the Sunday opening of the Exposition may be disposed of in a few words. Some of the directors object that it will subject them to additional work and expense. The fact is that it will bring in more money than it will cost, and we refuse to admit the proposition that the energetic directors are afraid of hard work of any kind. It is objected that it is not right to compel the employes of the Exhibition to work on Sunday. No one need be compelled to work against his will. Those who have conscientious scruples will be excused. There is no more objection to opening the Exposition on Sunday than there is to keeping a hotel open on Sunday or to running railroad trains, or publishing newspapers. No one will be compelled to work on Sunday who objects, no one will be compelled to visit the Exposition against his will, no harm will be done to the religious scruples of any

MESSRS. WARREN FISHER and JAMES MUL-LIGAN have published a collection of letters, the missing links of the BLAINE-FISHER-CALD-WELL correspondence, part of which Mr. BLAINE captured from MULLIGAN and kept at the time of the still unfinished House investigation. One letter from FISHER to BLAINE, dated April 16, 1872, reminds the latter of the fact that he has made more money out of the Little Rock and Fort Smith road than any othperson has; that he obtained "a large nt of money and bonds free of cost," and that it would be very shabby on his part to old payment of certain large loans ad-wanced to him by Mr. FISHER. Following this is a letter dated April 16, 1876, exactly four years later, in which Mr. BLAINE implores FISHER to sign and mail forthwith a letter drawn by Mr. BLAINE and purporting to be ddressed to Mr. BLAINE by Mr. FISHER, denying that BLAINE had ever obtained any gratuity, and affirming that BLAINE had merely purchased $30,000 worth of L. R. & F. S. bonds on precisely the same terms that every other buyer received. This certificate, which Mr. BLAINE asked FISHER to sign when an investigation was threatened, rather startles the reader when taken in connection with the rest of the correspondence. But what is the use of publishing this evidence? The leading journals of the party are supporting Mr. BLAINE after having pronounced him guilty of "cohabiting with corruption for dishonest gain." The brand they put on him only made him the favorite and ominee of the party, and no amount of cumulative evidence can make him less a favorite with those who would perpetuate the stereo typed peculiarities of Republican rule.

A POOR EXCUSE.

Mr. BLAINE has refused to vote for or agains the Prohibition Amendment at the late election in Maine, and in a speech explained that he dodged the issue because it was a State ques tion and no act of his, as the chosen represents tive of the Republican party, should obtrude into the National contest a question belonging properly to the domain of State politics. But Mr. BLAINE did not and can not explain how his vote for a Prohibition Amendment to the State constitution could be any more an obstrusion of a State question into National politics than was his vote for a straight ticket of avowed Prohibitionists for State officers.

He did not refuse to vote for a single man on the Republican State ticket, though all the candidates on it were nominated, supported and elected as avowed advocates of the ironclad Prohibition Amendment. After voting for them, his dodging a vote on the amendment itself was like straining at a gnat after swallowing a camel. Their election as the official representatives of Maine in all her interstate relations was rather more of a National question than the adoption of a purely local law like the Prohibition Amendment. In voting for them he had already obtruded the Prohibition question into the domain of National politics, because it was known and proclaimed everywhere that they were his representatives; that he was in full sympathy with them and that he organized the campaign which resulted in their election and the adoption of the amendment they advocated.

Un to the late hour on election day when Mr. BLAINE went to the polls, he had permitted himself to be proclaimed an advocate of the Prohibition Amendment as well as of the Prohibition State ticket nominated by his party under his direction and man agement. In a letter written on the 8th of July and published in a Prohibition organ, from which it was republished in all the papers of the Union, NEAL Dow declared that Mr. BLAINE "has always been a friend of the Maine law; has many times rendered important service to it; is in favor of the proposed Constitutional Amendment, and will vote for it; he is also a teetotaler and has been so for many years." On this pledge Mr. BLAINE made his fight and won his recent victory in Maine. Neither from him nor from any one of the scores of imported orators that stumped the State was there ever one word repudiating or discrediting the statements in the letter of the celebrated Prohibition leader.

Feeling that a victory thus won for him in For real high-tonedness, family pride, and all Maine might hurt him in some other States. that sort of thing commend us to the much Mr. BLAINE, just before the close of the polls, mentioned Morosini family of New York. resorted to an artifice to which no other candi-Their sense of honor is shocked at their daugh- date for President has ever stooped. > SPEAKING of the Maine election, the Globe Democrat says:

The latest returns from Maine as published in the same issue of the Globe-Democrat give ROBIE, Rep., 77,879; REDMON, Dem., 58,070; other candidates and scattering, 4.587; for the Prohibition Amendment, 64,507; against it 20,which make very fine mutton. After this we 234. So, instead of receiving twice as may votes as the Republican candidate for Governor, and therefore needing 20,000 Democratic votes to carry it, the Prohibition Amendment received 13,372 less than ROBIE. This difference obviously accounts for all the Republican votes that were not recorded for it. This small fraction of the party, however, followed Mr. BLAINE'S example in voting for a Republican State ticket composed of Prohibitionists, and then dodging a vote on the amendment itself.

What the Editors of the New York Journal Are Saying To-Day. By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, September 15.—The World says: "Every line of these letters should be read carefully ghtfully. Mr. Blaine cannot con he is judged by his own self-made record, and have ing read them, this question remains for the people: Is it not a burning insult to their bonor and in almost universal fraud and corruption, when all is sues sink into insignificance beside the crying ne cessity for reform, to see this self-convicted politica prostitute presented to the suffrages of a great na tion for their highest honors—the place once held by a Washington."

The Sun says: "Few citizens, we imagine had made up their minds to vote for Mr. Blaine in spite of the recorded evidence of his jobbery while holding office, and of his falsehood when brought to awkward, but it is what we have repeated by warned them to expect. They have but imperfectly understood the character or measured the capacities of the Republican caddate if they have fatuously imagined that the original Mulligar letters were the only storehouse in which those who distrust Mr. Blaine would be able to find facts to support their position. To them and to voters of every party and of every petic we commend an attentive study of the letters we present this morning."

THE TRIBUNE. The Tribune says: "If Mr. Cleveland assum he gubernatorial chair with a solemn determinat to dedicate all his efforts to the State's good, the n, like an imperfect vaccination, didn't take. No man can serve two masters. Mr. Cleve-land is trying to serve the people of New York and his own ambition for office. A really sincere, thoroughgoing 'administrative reformer' would either resign the Governorship or resign the Presi-dential candidacy."

dens are open on Sunday to wean men away from their religious duties, and their dimes and quarters from the contribution boxes.

Now, much as we regret this, our failure of last year to prevent drinking on Sunday proves that we can not legislate men into Sunday sobriety.

It seems plain, then that the good done by the Exposition in taking men away from drinking resorts on Sunday would very heavily counterbalance any loss accruing to the churches.

As to the objection that the Exposition employes should rest on the "Sabbath," I don't see how lany churchman can urge it when pastors, sextons, tishers, organists, choristers and the carriage drivers of the worshipers work harder on Sunday than any other day.

Very respectfully, Jos. CLARKE.

St. Louis, September 13, 1884.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch. the fact that bad places are kept open on Sunday is a strong argument for keeping better ones open, for otherwise those who have no pleasant homes, nor choice left them but to spend the day in misery and owing to a peculiarity of the human most impossible to make it at once and owing to a peculiarity or the number of the companion of the companions would be ashamed to be seen in church and their companions would ridicule them for being seen there. Without reclamatory steps what hope is there for them? The beer garden, the back-room card table of the boarding-house and of the glided saloon, etc., will hold their Sunday evening grip. By opening the Exposition Sunday evenings mone will be kept from better, many will be kept from worse places. There is more rejoicing over the one that is found than over the ninety and nine that are not lost. Let her open, not so much because men have no time during the week, but to enable them to profitably employ it on Sunday.

As there are in every community parties of very small souls who, while willing to accept the pro ratio of all public improvements, and reap the reward accorded to their more enterprising neighbors, re fuse to pay one cent of the cost necessary for the consummation of such results. I have heard with regret and surprise that a few, fortunately a very few, merchants occupying positions on the line of the contemplated illuminations, refuse to contribute their mite towards the expense, and knowing the impracticability of omitting their streets, and presuming that the management would not mar the beauty of the display so far as to omit them, refuse to contribute, thus 'throwing the total cost upon others, I would suggest the propriety of the following plan to the management for their adoption. > A Workingman's Plea. St. Louis, Mo., September 13, 1884.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Knowing you to be the friend of the workingman, and in behalf of fifty-five of my fellow labe entreat you not to give the directors of the Expo entreat you not to give the directors of the Exposi-tion any peace until they consent to open the Ex-position on Sunday, thus giving myself the chance to visit that institution at the same price of admis-sion as others enjoy. They speak of our employers giving all their employes one day off to visit the Exposition. Now remember that means myself paying $3 50 for what the church members pay $5 cents for. Is this right? I say it is radically wrong to make such distinction, and as I am a man of family I could ill afford the expense. Such are the sentiments of fifty-five devoted admirers of the P.D., the champion of the workingman. Yours.

Take Care of the Employees.

When the movement for the Sunday pening of the Exposition succeeds, as it probably will, do not, in your zeal for the good of other workingmen, allow the just claim of the Exposition employes to one full day of rest in seven to be set aside. Being at present where I see the third commandment constantly disregarded, I dread a further spread of the same lawlessness, of which in part, we have so recently seen the result in Chednati.

HIS INDIVIDUAL PROMISE AUGUSTA, ME., December 29, 1870. MY DEAR MR. FISHER-I am in hopes now that I shall secure $25,000, or nearly that. I find money very tight. I have seen most of the parties to whom bonds are due. I do not have much trou the January coupon of the first mortgage bonds, but uld be glad to have the coupon. I promised them individually to make it right in the future. I did not in any way use the name of the company, nor mit you to anything; only myself.

On the land bonds I cannot make them see the equity of removing the April coupon, and I prom sed to try and adjust that matter with you after my return to Boston. They all agree with one voice that no bonds shall be exposed for sale. I wish you could give me the benefit of that fraction, making 89 of the first mortgage bonds for $81,500 due. I use he extra $500 in adjusting the interest matter, and it fits completely. I will make it all right with you. Please meet me at Mr. Caldwell's private office of rday at 12:15 p. m., sharp. It is very importan that I have everything completed that day. Yours in great haste, J. G. Blains.

SANGUINE WITH SCOTT. FORTY-FIRST CONGRESS, HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
WASHINGTON, JANUARY 26, 1871.

My DEAR FISHER—I have this moment written to Mr. Caldwell suggesting that in case I can arrange a meeting in this city next week with Col. Thomas A. scott to come on here. I have some reason for be at a very advantageous arrangement may be made for taking, say $800,000. Let me have an securate and reliable statement of your tinancial guine with Thomas A. Scott. I think you will not deem me unreasonable when I again and persistently urge that I ought to have good notes for the and that I ought also to have the $82,00 bonds which were made by yourself and Mr. Caldwell the express basis of the $25,000 loan. I do not believe your company has a stronger or more equit-able and legal claim than mine, while its personal hardships to me are bitter and burning and humiliating to the last degree. Sincerely your friend,

"MY DEAR FINNER" DECLINED TO SHOW A DRAFT. FORTY-SECOND CONGRESS, U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21, 1871.
My Dean Mr. Caldwell—On the 29th in My Dean Mr. Caldwell.—On the 29th inst. the second note of the loan I negotiated in December last fell due. The first for $2,082 50-100, which fell due March 1, I was compelled to meet at the greatest possible inconvenience. I drew on Mr. Fisher for the amount, but he declined to notice the draft. The note which falls due on the 39th inst, is for $2,578 35. It seems extremely hard and unjust that I should be compelled to pay this money. It is no more my debt than the debt of President Grant or queen Victoria, and I cannot believe that I have no possible means wherewith to meet these notes, and I beg of you and Mr. Fisher, either or both, to come to fay relief. In a letter from Mr. Fisher, under date of January 24, he writes me as follows: "In regard to the $25,000 which you borrowed and loaned to Mr. Caldwell, or rather Mr. Pratt, as it was assumed by Mr. Pratt, because you received from him $50,000 land bonds for the amount, upon my visiting the office for the first time after you left the city, Mr. Pratt said he and Mr. Farrington gave to you their indi-vidual bonds and kept the money, and in order to obtain the money and get it out of Mr. Pratt's hands, I obtained the $50,000 land bonds and took what, I supposed to be money, but it was not there Part of it had been misapplied to other matters; $15,000 of it I loaned to Mr. Caldwell, the balance edge or consent, and Pullman cars, etc., etc." Now, my dear sir, if this be a correct statement, may I not hope you will relieve me to the extent of the $15,000, and Mr. Fisher will surely pay the other $10,000. As a wholly innocent party, doing my best to act as a sincere and steadfast friend to both of you, I ought not to be left exposed to financial ruin and personal humiliation.

BOSTON, April 21, 871. DEAR FISHER-Linclose letter from Blaine. I forgot to speak to you about them when I saw you this afternoon. I hope you can help him. I would if it were in my power. Blaine is an important man to have feel all right towards us and I only wish I was so situated that I could help him.

This letter inclosed Mr. Blaine's letter to Caldwell of April 21, 1871: To My DEAR MR. FISHER-Itried very hard yesterday and the day before to see you. I am in a very painful and embarrassed situation growing out of my connection with the Fort Smith enterprise. I have paid and caused to be paid into your treasury painful perplexity. Now, to make to you, which I think is most liberal and fair, myself past all recovery. Now if you will take up the $10.000 of coupons, paying me the cash therefor, and give me the $45,000 of bonds, I will let all the renainder of our matters stand until you are ready to open correspondence on the subject yourself.

I trust, in consideration of our many years of friendship as well as in view of the peculiar relations I have held in this matter, you will make an effort to do this. Yours truly, J. G. BLAINE. W. J. FISHER, JR., ESQ. HOSTON, September 30, 1871.

To MY DEAR BLAINE-It is of the greatest importance that the parties owning the interest on the $25,000 and invested by them in the Northern Pacific railroad should receive what is due them, and unless thing is done about it I shall be forced to turn he documents over to them and let you settle di-rectly with them. Mr. Caidwell tells me he has paid you his last note due you and gave you the $50,000 land bonds in addition. I should judge it was for your interest to settle the matter at once. I remain,

In the eastern portion of the country, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and Maryland, are one great tobacco field, while Connecticut's "seedleaf" retains its prominent value as a leading crop in that State. The tobacco crop of this country, which in 1864 was but 197,000,000 pounds, promis in 1884 to be between 600,000,000 and 700,000,00 pounds, or more than three times that of twenty years ago. The acreage, which in 1864 was 239,836 has jumped up to nearly 700,000, while the value of the crop, which in 1864 was $30,000,000, will proba bly reach $45,000,000 or $50,000,000 in 1884.

are, it is claimed by experts, considerably below the actual facts as it has been demonstrated that re-turns of production of tobacco, which bears a heavy tax, are uniformly under estimates in fact, in accord with the experience of all Governments with respect to the voluntary statistical returns of taxed products. In addition to the 600,000,000 pounds of tobacco raised in this country, the imports of the present year will make a total of about twelve pounds per head for the entire population of the country. It is proper to add, however, in this connection, that, of the 900,000,000 pounds grown in this country, from 230,000,000 to 240,000,000 will probably be experted, leaving the total for home consumption something less than 400,000,000 pounds, or about eight pounds per head for the entire population. The value of imported tobacco amounts annually to about $12,000,000, which adding to it the $8,000,000 will probably to about $12,000,000, which adding to it the $8,000,000 of the $00,000,000 pounds of the consumers of this country, up to $30,000,000. This sum, of course, nearly, or quite doubles by the time the article reaches the consumer in the form of imported eigars. Of the $600,000,000 pounds of tobacco grown in this country $30,000,000 will be manufactured into chewing and smoking tobacco and snuff. The number of MANUFACTORIES in the country are to be counted by thousands. The tobacco manufactories proper are about 1,000, but of cigar manufactories more than 16,000. New York and Ponnsylvania have each about 4,000; Illinois and Ohio, about 1,500 each; none of the other States reaching in number as high as 1,000. These cigar manufactories made over 3,000,000,000 or cigars in the fiscal year just ended and about 750,000,000 pounds but it is interesting to hote, in this counter which is called tobacco. In the manufacture of plug tobacco and fine-cut in this country in the past year about 12,000,000 pounds of liquoice and an equal quantity of sugar was used, while in addition, 6,000,000 pounds of other "materials" were used to this interesting that the imported exists and pounds on the manufacture of plug tobacco and fine-cut in this country in the past year abo tax, are uniformly under estimates in fact, in accord with the experience of all Governments with

A VICTORY.

The Browns Defeat the Leaders in Aquatic Notes, Diamond Chips, Sporting Notes, Gossip and Sundries.

The attendance at Sportsman's Park yesterday aggregated about 12,000 people, and they were reated to an exciting and interesting game, although redeemed occasional errors by brilliant bits of fielding and bunched hits on Keefe Iin such a manner that with the aid of errors in the field they took a lead and closed, and the final score was 7 to 4 in favor of the home team. The proper tactics were pursued in regard to the St. Louis pitchers, and after Foutz had been worked to the extent of his strength Caruthers was put in and patched the last five innings with great effect; of the three hits made by the Mets, three were made off each pitcher, their work being exocedingly effective. The Browns did some fearful base-running in the first inning, two men being sacrificed in the wildest kind of a way. The game was a grand victory for St. Louis, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding, and as for bad behavior of the crowd it was politeness itself as compared with the ruffianly behavior of the Metropolitans. Roseman, whose scowl is enough to frighten a baby into spasms, set himself close to Umpire Griffith and browbeat and lectured him all through the game. Esterbrook earned all the noise he got from the crowd by his deliberate efforts to annoy Foutz and Caruthers with his persistent and idiotic "Now your's off," which was not intended for coaching purposes. At times the entire Metropolitan nine was on its feet and shouting and howling at Griffith, and it is a wonder that he preserved his equanimity as well as he did. Roseman may not have uttered any threats, but his looks said time and time again: "I'll see you after the game if you decide against us." No nine has ever visited St. Louis that behaved as badly as did the Mets yesterday, and the crowd was perfection in its behavior under the circumstances. Tom Deasley caught a brilliant game, and Comissisey's first-base play was also fine. The pitching of Foutz and Carruthers was exceedingly effective, and the heavy guns of the Mets failed to hit them. Nicol at second did his work most effectively, while Gleason and Latham sprinkled very handsome work with errors. work being exceedingly effective. The Browns did back shorn. One thing is certain, however, and that is that the Browns never had such a team on the field, or played such bail as they are doing at present, and they are not likely to lose a great many games the balance of the season, and will improve rather than lose upon their present position. To-day, they are meeting the Virginias of Richmond, the strong team which stepped into the vacancy left by the disbanding of the Washington club and assumed its record. For St. Louis the battery will be McGinnisa and McCauley, for the visitors Meegan and Hanna. The clubs will meet again on Wednesday. The Virginias will be succeeded by the Alleghenies on Thursday. All challenges, etc., should be addresse the Secretary, James F. O'Connor, Christian Exhibition games are never in any wise satisfac-Park, and the game was won by the St. Louis with out trouble, their victory being due to the fact that the Browns batted McIntyre very hard. The game was listless and indifferent, but the Mets had no desire to lose it, and have no extravagant amount of affection for the St. Louis Club or its players. Some of the men, Orr, Roseman, Brady and the others, nearly threw their arms out of socket trying to hit the ball, and all they got was eleven hits. The Republican is trying to misrepresent the St. Louis Club. It says that people did not know whether it was a regular or exhibition game. People knew all about it, as was evidenced in the fact that there were only about 500 persons present. A regular game would have brought out 5,000 at least. The status of the game was fully announced in the Republican and Globe-Democrat. Further on, the Republican says: "The visitors had some individual in the box known as McIntyre, not to pitch, but merely to toss the balls over the plate." The truth of the matter was that McIntyre was a member of the Detroit Club and defeated the Chicago Leaguers. Saturday was a trial day for him with the Mets, and when men are on trial for a position they do their best. McIntyre did his best, but the Republican man's usually elaborate knowledge of the game was obscured by his desire to mistepresent the St. Louis team. They played a fine batting and fielding game and won easily and cleverly.

The death is announced in London of the Rev. Robert Wells Risley, who has been before the English boating public for nearly thirty years. He began rowing in 1856 with the Exeter College crew, and appeared prominently in amateur regastas for ten years. He is spoken of as an accomplished and powerful oarsman and a devote of the sport. More recently he officiated as joint umpire at leading amateur aquatic events. He died aged 48.

The articles of agreement sent on by Jacob G. Gaudaur for George Hosmer to sign provide, that the race shall be rowed at St. Louis, under the ruies of the Mississippi Valley Amateur Rowing Association, September 21. Each party is to appoint a judge and they to select a referce. If the judges cannot agree upon a referce, that official is to be appointed by the editor of the St. Louis Post-Dis-Patcia.—Boston Herald

PATCH.—Boston Herald
Beach made great preparations for his race with Hanlan, and he was hopeful of success. He even went so far as to fit his boat with all the new rowing appliances. He had his boots screwed on the stretcher in the same manner as Hanlan had his.
This is now believed to be a wonderful advantage, as it gives far greater power to the leg-work than the ordinary straps usually used by rowing men.

The Laurels defeated the Central Homes by core of 15 to 7.

Sprague's Delicatessens defeated the Milfords for the third time by a score of 11 to 8. The features of the game were the batting of Haggerty and the catching of Walker of the Delicatessens. Yesterday's challenge shoot of the West End Gun Club against the Riversides resulted in score of 65 to 83 in favor of the latter. The same clubs will probably shoot a clay pigeon match, before the sea-son closes.

Speaking of the Milwaukees' hope to next year be a member of the Unions, the Chicago Mirror of American Sports, says: "Our friends of the Cream City will find themselves trotting in fast company, and it is very doubtful indeed whether the local admirers of base-ball will numerously attend games in which the home club is completely out-classed. Possibly the club has some idea of getting new players that will bring its team up to the St. Louis and Cincinnatti standard, which means $500 to $800 per month as the average of salaries. In that case it will be interesting to know how long the Milwaukee Club would stand up under such expense. As between a cheap team that can win noj games and an expensive team that will bankrupt the club, Milwaukee's prospects for 1885 as a member of the Union Association are not particularly flattering."

For some time there has been considerable feeling

There are about 600 entries for the Springfield, Mass., bleyele tournament, which will begin to morrow. The racers include the amateurs Headee, Dolph, Frazier, Hamilton, Norton, Burnham, Westervelt, Parsons and Brooks; the American professionals Prince, Woodside, Young, Ashinger, Keison and others: the English amateurs Seliers, Iliston, Chambers, Gaskell, Palmer, Frank Moore and Leeming; and the English professionals Wood, Howell, Keen-and James. Most of the Englishmen are now there practicing.

This country, he said is ruled by three immutable powers, national banks, high protection and the railroads. He averred the impossibility of securing the forfeiture of any railroad land grant, not withstanding the acknowledged fact that the corporations concerned had not fulfilled the terms of their grant, and affirms that the 2.500 national banks own the Republican party, and they will not permit the abolishment of the pational debt. Encouraging Outlook This Week.

The Local Drama Redivivus - Barnum's Opening - Local Stage Notes and Chit

The cool weather brought much better business to the several houses last evening than has marked either of the two preceding weeks. The houses were all well filled, although some of them were rather top-heavy, the representations being generally of the masses. It was a little refreshing to note that at three houses the performance depicted phases of New York life while at the fourth the action of the play was localized to the West. To-night this order of things will be broken by the presentation at Pope's of the pleasant comedy-drama "The Rajah," which is English in its topic and treat

Dan Sully made a big hit in his "Corner Grocery," at the Standard, last night, and his Daddy Nolan was recognized as "a peculiar, quaint and natural type of Irish character, which is perfectly and purely original. It is a distinct study by the actor and he has not gone into other fields to glean, pinch or "adapt." Daddy is not a ridiculous caricature or a mountebank, who libels the Irish character, but a big-hearted, sensible and consistent being, who has his sensibilities and his affections, and throughout the piece there is a very cleverly arranged narrative of a son who has apparently gone, but who clears up everything in the end and makes his record clear. But after all the chief element of success is the immense quantity of rough and tumble fun which is introduced. In the Nolan household there is a mischievous youth—Jimmy Nolan—who devotes all of his time and talents to practical joking and is never-at rest unless so employed. In the scenes with his father, mother and other characters he kept the house shouting with laughter, and the part was done by Master Malvey with much raciness. The one good thing the lad tries to do turns out disastrously and he is better engaged in practical joking. Geo. A. Bean, jr., did a traditional Jew—Budwelser—well, Miss Louise Fox was pretty and engaging as Daddy's ward, Jennie Burke, and Miss Edith Sinclair was excellent as Mrs. Nolan. The other characters were merely "fill ins," and were satisfactorily done. It is one of the merriest performances ever given here, and the house—which was large down stairs and packed in the upper portions—pronounced its approval emphatically.

was large down stairs and packed in the upper portions—pronounced its approval emphatically.

Milton Nobles opened his regular engagement at the Grand last evening to a very fair house. Although none of his plays have ever equaled "The Phœnix" in general popularity, several of them are far superior to that drama in severa respects, more particularly in sharp, terse and crisp dialogue, and "Love and the Law" comes under this head. It is a clever piece of work, and gives another good and interesting series of those local pictures and characters Nobles delights in depicting from New York life. I never could discern any wonderful amount of originality in drama; of this class, and in "Love and the Law" there are a number of old acquaintances, including the murderous Italian padrone who has stolen a girl; a sentimental pair in a handsome widow and an old lovers a London prig doing duty in New York, etc. In Felix O'Paff Mr. Nobles gives another breezy sketch of the same series in which he has already presented the Bohemian, the rounder and the reporter, this being an intellectually bright and financially weak limb of the law, whose confidence in himself and human nature is unbounded and serves to lift him out of the hold. His lines sparkle with epigram and repartee, and Mr. Nobles is responsible for most of this—at the same time he is not so hide bound as to have his audiences lose a good thing, which he may find lying perdu in out-of-tne-way places. Some of the Jokes, while not immediately recognizable, were reminiscent, like airs in new operas, which are adapted for the occasion. The sentimental is not neglected in "Love and the Law," and there are some very pretty love scenes in several of the acts. In these Miss Dollie Nobles was exceedingly pretty and charming as the Italian girl, Ritts, singing very sweetly. Miss Arnes Herndon, one of the handsomest women on the stage, made an imposing Helen Montague. Tille Barnum was funny as Kitty, and Florence Minturn an excellent Mrs. Tarox. Frank Lane did Sir Randall Burns

"The Power of Money" which was given to a large up-stairs and an excellent parquette audience at the People's last night, is now in its second season. having demonstrated that it possessed considerable elements of popularity in its first campaign. The present proprietor, George O. Morris, and the drama re-written, re-cast and re-embellshed with pretensions and handsome scenery and one fugenious and impressive effect—the inundation at New Orleans—which is not surpassed on the stage. In fact, under its present auspices, "The Power of Money" will bear very favorable comparison with many of the realistic dramas which have been brought here from abroad. The company is capable of the most pretentious work, Mr. Fred Bock being very powerful in the dual role of Sthart and John Forsyth, and investing the parts with a great deal of character and strengtin. W. G. Hatton was good as Gen. Wardsley; Frank Jamison doing the villain. Caruthers, in good form. An excellent comedy couple are Frank Davis and Fannie Davis, who utroduce some speciaties cleverly. Misses Jepnie Jackson, Emma Leland, Bena Halton and Mand Sellers were the other ladies in the cast. Several of the scenic pictures were loudly applauded, including the burning train, the mundation, the old French Market in New Orleans, the Mammoth Cave and the Horse-Shoe Bend in the Alleghenies. It is one of the best successes of its class, and chose who saw the drama last season would scarcely recognize it in its revamped form and new dress. "The Power of Money" which was given to a large

the best successes of its class, and those who saw the drama last season would scarcely recognize it in its revamped form and new dress.

One of the very best melodramas ever brought to this city is "The Shadows of a Great City," which was magnificently put on the boards at the Olympic last evening and was acted by probably the best company which has ever appeared here in this especial branch of the drama. The play is not original in theme—the persecution of an innocent man for a crime not his own—but in incident, treatment and character it is purely so, and its construction is that of a dramatis who understands perfectly the requirements of the stage, the nature of dramatic action, narrative, climax and finale, and in this the work is peculiarly a study. The audience is kept interested from the opening to the close, and Mr. L.R. Shewell has accomplished a work which is so absolutely successful that future efforts from his pen will be regarded with considerable interest. In "The Shadows of a Great City" the fact is demonstrated that New York furnishes quite as rich and abundant material for good melo-drama as does London or Paris, and the contrasts in social life, the luxury and poverty, the fashionable frivolity and misery and crime in the dregs are quite as vivid and as strongly drawn. These facts Mr. Shewell has recognized in his play, and has taken hold of the subject with a bold, assertive hand. Not a little is he indebted to his excellent company for the fine success of his plece: Miss Annie Ward Tiffany, a versatile and experienced artiste, made a strong hit in the character of Biddy Ronan, and Julia Stewart presented two sweet and touching pictures as anine Standish and Helen, her daughter. The child Nellie in the first act was touchingly done by little Gracie, and Clementine Vaughn was up to the standard of the cast as Mrs. Higgins. There was a particularly broad field of character in the male cast, and B. R. Graham made a manly and vigorous Tom Cooper and carried the sympathies of the audience from be

The Casino presented a number of new faces last evening to a very good house, and the performance was an improvement over that of last week. To-night the regular season will open at Pope's Theater with the Madison Square comedy-drama of "The Rajah." It is an interesting play, clean and bright, and is presented by one of the exceedingly strong companies for which the Madison Square is noted. "The Rajah" will be quite as enjoyable as it was last year, when it made one of the especial hits of the season. There will be a very brilliant attendance at Pope's to-night, and the occasion will be an exceptional one in the history of the theater.

The Dime Museums are doing a splendid business, and on Sundays their space is fully utilized from the time they open until they close. Gregory's Fifth Street Museum entertained its patrons with the Baby Venus, the snake charmer, the armiess and legless man, the Circassian princess, the pedestal pianiste, Punch and Judy, dancing skeleton, mind reader and double-voiced vocalist. The museum and theatorium are especially attractive this week.

Calling With a Good Many Ups

A shrewd looking young fellow, rather roughly dressed, who had just turned away from a country-man after giving him minute directions as to where to find a certain spot, was whistling along in a happy mood when he was stopped by a reporter happy mood when he was stopped by a reporter who had a slight acquaintance with him. He was a "Hoosier" drummer, as distinguished from the traveling salesman and the hotel drummer; that is, he catches up the Hoosiers anywhere he can find them, and tries to induce them to visit his store and buy. His business is retail clothing, but he generally has an understanding with some wholesale houses, so that if he runs in a merchant he is sure of his commissions." "How is business," asked the reporter.

"First rate—picking up right along, but we've had a tough tussel of it for a good while. I've been living on free lunches and my friends for a month, but I think I'll go to the Southern for a few weeks, now."

but I think I'll go to the Southern for a few weeks, now."

"You must have caught some good ones, lately?"

You saw that fellow I just left! Well, he was worth a clean $75 to me. I run him into our store-and sold him his wedcing outfit. Elegant outfit, foo," he added, with a wink and a laugh. "Then found he wanted to buy his fall goods—he has a general store in Arkansas—and I took him around to see some of my wholesale friends, and they fixed him. I have just put $75 in my pocket as a result?" and he patted the proper locality caressingly.

"Do you often get as good a snap as that?"

"Can't say I do very often, but I run across them every now and then, and when I do I work 'em for all I can get."

"Do you make a good commission?"

"All the way from ten to twenty-five per cent, and it's a oild day when I can't make a few dollad when there is any game around at all. I expect to make enough the next month to keep up the firm for the rest of the year almost. These excursions they are talking about will be fruit for me."

"Syler Get Many snuns?"

"Snubs? I should say so. You don't suppose every man I meet is a sucker? Not much; but I've got so I know 'em pretty near she sight. I can tell my meat a mile off, 'though I sometimes make a mistake. Nearly had a fight with a fellow this morning because he said I cheated him. I skinned out and the other boys made it all right with him. I look a good deal like a Hoosier myself you see. They are afraid of these dandy looking fellows, and I dress to suit their tastes. Have a drink or a cigar? No? Better take one; you might not get a chance again soon. Hello! there goes one of my men," and in a few minutes the reporter saw his 'runner in' friend talking darnestly to a man with a whole family following in his wake. It appeared to be no go, however, for shortly after he was sauntering up to another.

up to a proper appreciation of the cenemic to be used inved from the illumination. This was found to be comparatively easy work, as the pulse of the whole city has been aroused in the matter and the idea of allowing any falling off from the accomplishments of previous years is, by general consent, not to be allowed in this year of the great Exposition. At one of the places where Mr. Joseph Specht called this morning he was greeted by the proprietor with the remark, "Well, I suppose you are here collecting for the illumination again this year." This is the kind of opening which usually sends a cold chill down the back of the unprofessional can wasser and Mr. Specht prepared to overwhelm nishest with arguments calculated to arouse his public spirit. Before he could begin the gentleman drew a plece of paper from his desk and handed it over piece of paper from his desk and handed it over with the remark, "That's all I can do this year, Joe." Mr. Specht's face brightened considerably as he glanced at the check and remarked, "Why, Mr.—that is $25 more than we got from you hast year." "Thought you'd need more this year than last," was the answer, as the business man turned quietly to his work again, and the committee waked off with a nice little $75 check tucked away in their chairman's pocketbook. All the committees are trudging along this morning being bent rudging along this morning being this afternoon that will satisfy the least sanguine citizen that St. Louis is a city equal to as big an accomplishment on as short a notice as any in the land. "The only difficulty in this matter of the illumination," said Mr. Boyd, the treasurer of the committee, "has been the shortness of the time left to get the money, Considering the little time they have had, the committee ece of paper from his desk and handed it ove and, though the exact amount which has been collected can not be definitely arrived at until this evening, it is certain that enough has been segured to settle the fact that the illumination is bound to come off. From the circulars alone which were sent out to outside parties, who could not otherwise be easily reached, answers which swell the fund by $2,300 have been received." Mr. Thompson, chairman of the committee, was equally sanguine. He said:

"The work already accomplished by the committee makes the illumination a settled fact. There is still considerable collecting to be done, but the results thus far show that the balance as yet uncollectedwill certainly be gathered in."

Couraging Reports.

Although the facts will not be developed fully until this afternoon when the committee will meet at the Mercantile Club, enough is already known to warrant the statement that the illumination boom is now in the high tide of success, and that the glorious feature of the Fair weeks of 1882 and 1882 and 1882 will be repeated this year. This statement does not imply the fact that all the necessary money has been collected, and must not be considered as an intimation to such as have not yet come down with their subscriptious that there is no necessity for them to do so. The belief that the illumination will certainly come off is based upon the knowledge that the success which the canvassers have met with thus the canvassers have met with thus when they have finished their call, they will have accumulated the required amount of money. There is still MUCH TO BE DONE, bowever, and early this morning, the Canvassing Committees were at work calling upon the business men in their respective districts, and working them up to a proper appreciation of the benefits to be derived from the illumination. This was found to be desired from the illumination.
